

would have no blinding force." In its issue of December 27, it gives Garcelon credit for making a "clear, terse statement of the case, and fortifies his position with strong argument." At other times it has given Garcelon words of encouragement. So has the Milwaukee News, and especially the Washington Post, which represents the Democratic majority in Congress. In short, there can not be named a prominent Democratic paper in the West or East, that has had the courage to denounce the Maine frauds.

AN EXCELLENT INSTITUTION.

The fourth annual report of the Board of Managers of the Wisconsin Industrial School for Girls, has been received. This is one of our most useful institutions, and is located at Milwaukee, and it deserves the sympathy and practical support of the people. It is the only institution of the kind in Wisconsin, and has the care of a class of girls that should not be sent to the poor house or to penal institutions. Its object is to reform wayward girls, to give them a temporary home, food and clothing, and instruction in the common English branches. The class of girls that are admitted are:

1. Viciously inclined girls under 16 and boys under 10 years of age.
2. The stubborn and unruly, who refuse to obey those who properly have care of them.
3. Truants, vagrants and beggars.
4. Those found in circumstances of manifest danger of falling into habits of vice and immorality.
5. Those who have committed any offense punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, other than imprisonment for life.

The capacity of the building in which the school is held, is about one hundred, and the managers state that any greater number would necessitate unhealthy crowding. The present number in the school is seventy-one, and the number is gradually increasing. The report also says that before the Legislature of 1881, there will be no room to receive any more except through the dismissal of those who ought to remain longer under the care of the school. This subject should receive some earnest attention from the Legislature for the fact confronts us, that the Milwaukee Institution for the care and reformation of young girls, is one which should receive the support of the people; and the ladies who have the school in charge, and who are doing so much work for no reward except that of doing good, are entitled to the applause of the public. During the past year the school has received from various sources, nearly eight thousand dollars, and the balance on hand at the close of the year, was $133.00.

A VERY BAD PRECEDENT.

Last winter the trustees of the Wisconsin Hospital for the Insane asked for an appropriation of several thousand dollars for the erection of an additional building thereto, and the Legislature, after giving the matter some investigation and discussion, very wisely refused to grant the amount asked for. If we understand the grounds on which the appropriation was refused, they were that an additional building was not needed, that there was ample room, and more too, for all the inmates of that institution. But the trustees of the State Hospital, however, were not to be defeated in their scheme to pile up more buildings, and accordingly without warrant they went to work and expended more than $20,000 of the surplus funds of the Hospital in erecting the building. By this unwarrantable proceeding, the State is run into debt to the amount of $10,000, and the trustees, with Garcelon's native cheek, ask that the Legislature shall pay the debt!
It is to be hoped that every member of the Legislature, will have the manhood to stamp the proceedings with his disapproba-tion. Such conduct on the part of the trustees of the State Hospital should be held up for public reprobation, and it is a good time for the Legislature to place the seal of condemnation upon it.
The trustees of the State Hospital, will, of course, offer an excuse for violating the law and tramping under foot the opinion of the Legislature. They will try and make it appear that the building was needed, that it could be built cheap, that it was dangerous to wait until this winter, and all that.
They should make an honest confession and say that if they waited till the Legislature lawfully appropriated the $20,000, or whatever sum was needed, they would not have had an opportunity to add additional wails to the State Hospital. It is possible the building was necessary. There may be a demand for a twenty thousand dollar addition, and all that, but the trustees knew very well they were bidding defiance to the Legislature, and taking a step for which they had no authority in law. Every man of enlightened judgment and who has any regard for law, will at once confess that the trustees had no right to anticipate the approval of the Legislature of that sort of proceeding. The trustees of the State Hospital should remember that they have no right to dispose of the State money without being fully warranted by law.
They should understand that such a precedent is a dangerous one, and should never be tolerated. There is hardly another board of Trustees in the State that would have dared to assume such a responsibility as that assumed by the trustees of the State Hospital, and because that institution is under the shadow of the capitol, is no reason they should have taken such unwarrantable liberties with the surplus funds of the Hospital. There is not a member of the board of trustees of the Institution for the Education of the Blind, who would have done that thing, unless in an extraordinary emergency, and where right and public sentiment would have clearly suggested that such an expenditure should have been made. The Legislature will carry out the will of the people if it severely condemns that way of spending the public funds.

MAINE.

Yesterday's Developments at the State Capitol—The Rumors and Speculations.

AUGUSTA, Maine, Jan. 21.—The Fusionists are like the Irishman's flea, when you put your finger on them they are not there. Last night every one thought, and they appeared as if they had given up the contest. To-day their aspect has entirely changed. Reluctant as they have been heretofore, and conceding their conversations to their own circles what their plans are none can find out, though much excitement was caused today by a rumor that a special train had left Augusta for a point east, and upon which, rumor also said, a force of men were brought to Augusta by the Fusionists. Where they are to come from, and what they are to do when they arrive, are two of the things no fellow can find out.
Two reasons are advanced as to the cause of their change of front. One is the fact that the Hon A. P. Gould, of Thomaston, their great legal luminary, arrived last night, and has been in close conference with the leaders, Pillsbury being earnestly buzzing him tonight on the starway at the Augusta House, with his hand to his mouth and his mouth to his ear, and it is said that Gould has strongly urged their continuing to act as a Legislature either in the Capitol or elsewhere. If they do that, their next step will, doubtless, be to depose the Judges of the Supreme Court and elect a new Supreme Court. Then they might pass laws and levy taxes that would enforce their laws or levy taxes? But this is not serious enough for discussion.

BURNS HER BOYS.

A Woman at Andover, Mass., Roasts to Death Her Two Boys.
BOSTON, Jan. 21.—Another case of religious fanaticism or somnambulism, involving the death of two children, came to light to-day. At 2 o'clock on the morning of November 18 last, a fire was discovered in the house of Mrs. Bard, at Andover, and her two little boys were found dead in bed in their room in an ell of the house. They lay as though quietly asleep, and evidently had passed away unconscious of the touch of the flames. The fire in this room was quickly extinguished, and no damage was done to the building. On entering the room of Mrs.
Bard, in the main building, a second fire was found burning at the foot of her bed, and still later another incipient and entirely distinct blaze was found in the closet of her bedroom. The neighbors who first entered the boys' room noticed what seemed to be a strong odor of kerosene about the bed, and this also led to suspicion that the fire was not an accident. It was the first time that a woman had been found in a state of somnambulism, or some other unconscious condition of mind, and that person the jury believed to be Mrs. Francis Bard. This afternoon Mrs. Bard was arrested and held for trial for arson. She is a widow, 33 years old, and has considerable property, and has always occupied a high social position in the town. She has been a devoted and loving parent and earnest Christian, having for many years been an active member of the Congregational church. Her grief at her husband's death apparently unsettled her mind for a time, and she was missing for a day or two, being finally found concealed in a neighbor's barn. She was sent to the McLean Asylum at Somerville for a few weeks, and apparently fully recovered; but she was subject to religious hallucinations, and evidently committed the deed in some such madness as that which possessed the woman at Freetown. For several weeks before the fire, she appeared depressed in spirits, and her mind was particularly morbid upon religious subjects.
In a discussion in the Bible class on Abraham's sacrifice of Isaac, she remarked that she considered that "parents in these times may call to mind the sacrifice of a like sacrifice," and the calm, cold blooded way in which she said it made her auditors shiver. But this afflicted mother exhibited the strongest paternal love for her children.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The debate on which he took most radical ground against the measure, declaring it was in the interest of bankers and monopol-

State Constitution were offered as follows:
By Kaesser, providing for uniform taxation

The resolution congratulating the Re-were elected for the next year as follows: President, James Webster, of Danville; Vice President, W. H. Hardy, of Genesee; Recording Secretary, H. J. Wilkinson, of Whitewater; Corresponding Secretary, C. R.

Gibbs, of Whitewater; Treasurer, J. N.
Crawford, of Mukwonago. Board of Di-

J. J. Clapp and W. Parper, of Beaver Dam. A committee of conference with committees of Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois, to agree upon a uniform and standard system of regulation in the West, was appointed. Able papers were read at the last session by N. E. Allen, of Fox Lake, on "The Ranch," and J. Raymond, of Fond throughout the convention.

KEROSENE ACCIDENT.

GREEN BAY, Jan. 21.—Last night Frank Jogolinski, a workman in the Green Bay turn, was terribly burned by the ignition and explosion of a can of kerosene oil, from which he was filling a lighted torch, which enveloped him in flames. At the suggestion of his comrades the unfortunate man plunged into a tank of water on the premises and thus extinguished the flames, but not before the flesh on various parts of his body was terribly burned and charred.
The man is still alive, but it is doubtful if he will survive his injuries.

ANNA DICKINSON.

Some Account of Her Early Life and Her Career as a Lecturer.

A lecture agent, who knows Anna Dickinson intimately, has been unfolding her life to a San Francisco reporter. She is a Philadelphia, and 37 years old. Her father was a Pennsylvania merchant of inflexible will and strong anti-slavery convictions, her mother a member of an excellent Delaware family; both were Quakers and reared their family in that sect. A cross, willful child she never became, but her father, who was accounted one of the best Abolition speakers in Philadelphia, failed in business, died when Anna was ten, and left his family poor. Educated at a Quaker free school and boarding school, she was a very bright pupil, though prone to be refractory. At 14 she wrote "The Garrisonian Revolution," and verses for the minor magazines, which she has never acknowledged. She left school at 17 and sought employment. She taught, copied legal documents, and worked in the mint.
When Wendell Phillips lectured in Philadelphia on a certain occasion, she scrubbed anesthetically the floor of the lecture hall, to hear him. Afterwards, the manager who then had charge of Phillips, gave Anna $400 a night for her fees, more than twice as much as the silver-tongued Yankee has ever received. She yearned for expression, and found the occasion, unexpectedly, at a meeting of the Progressive Friends interested in woman's rights. She used to go to the meetings secretly, but never dreamed of speaking publicly until a friend made, one evening, a violent and brutal assault on her sex. His words filled her with fiery wrath. As soon as he had sat down, she stepped to the front and, with a self-sacrificing, poured upon his head a torrent of invectives, advancing toward and pointing her finger at him, as she hurled burning reproaches in his teeth. The audience were astounded at the fiery eloquence of the girl in short sleeves; she was amazed at her own power and audacity, and when the offender dunked out of the hall without attempting a reply. That determined her calling and her future. Her kindred were shocked when they heard what she had done, but her friends urged her to continue what was so plainly her vocation. She spoke again and again, and soon acquired a reputation for oratory which grew rapidly. The press praised her, Garrison invited her to Boston, but she remained at the mint until, having defended Baker and Stone, and denounced McClellan in a speech after Ball's Bluff, she was discharged for political reasons.
During the second year of the war she was induced to take part in a political campaign, and she has been credited with carrying Connecticut and New Hampshire for the Republicans. Once, when addressing the audience in the mining regions of Pennsylvania, a Molly Maguire snapped a pistol at her head. She saw him take aim, and though in the middle of a sentence, she finished it by an effort of will.
She has earned a great deal of money, it is said, but she has supported all her relatives on every hand that she has been generous to all. The lecture agent confides to the reporter that she has had many numbers of unofficial offers, and adds that the problem of her celibacy is her ardent love of freedom. Her favorite ring bears the motto: "Above all things, liberty."
